Politicians Try To Capitalize on GOP Surprise

Problems for Both Parties Posed by Rockefeller Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—Both major parties strove today to capitalize on a stunning political surprise—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's withdrawal from the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

Republicans pictured the GOP as a unified party, one which refrains from rending itself apart in brawling convention contests—a party which can now devote all its energies to electing Vice President Richard M. Nixon to the presidency.

Democrats depicted the GOP as controlled by old pro conservatives, who do not give "progressives" like the New York governor a look-in. There was even talk—notably by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas—of drafting Rockefeller for a high post under "the Democratic president to be elected next November."

Both Parties Silent

Neither party had much to say in public about the problems posed for it by Rockefeller's "definite and final" announcement on Saturday that he would not be a candidate in 1960 for the presidential nomination, and would not accept the vice presidential spot.

One big poser for the Republicans was how to pump any drama into their convention opening in Chicago next July 25. It will be like a mystery novel of which every reader knows the ending. Nothing now sighted on the political horizon ran prevent a first ballot nomination for Nixon. The only suspense lies in the choice of his running mate.

And if political custom holds, Nixon and not the delegates will make that choice. He said Sunday, as he left in high good humor to attend the Colts-Giants football game in Baltimore, that it was too early to talk about the 1960 ticket.

Morton Praises Rockefeller

The Republican national chairman, Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, praised Rockefeller for "so clearly stating his position." Morton said he felt Nixon was well ahead in the GOP presidential nomination picture.

The White House declined comment on Rockefeller's withdrawal.

For the Democrats—with their small army of aspirants who show no signs of withdrawing—the problem is how to pick the best man to take on Nixon without ripping the party seams by fights over religion, North-South issues and other matters.

When they meet in Los Angeles July 11, the Democrats will be laboring under no uncertainty as to whom they must prepare to

City Council To Decide On Income Tax

City Council will meet in special session Tuesday night to act on the city income tax ordinance which has had two readings but needs a third for final passage.

Council's final meeting was delayed one week so that a public hearing could be held on the proposed income tax of six tenths of one per cent. This session was held last Wednesday evening at the Memorial Building and was attended by approximately 100 persons.

Council listened but gave no indication of its final action.

The city income tax, which would be effective Feb. 1, is designed to raise between $180,000 and $200,000 in operating funds which city officials say is needed badly.

The income tax has been endorsed by the Salem Area Chamber of Commerce and also the Salem Manufacturers Association, although two industries, the Salem China Co. and Salem Plastics, Inc., are opposed to the tax.

Air Force Officer Killed In Accident

CLAYSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Two autos collided Sunday on U.S. 40 about three miles west of this southwestern Pennsylvania community, killing a 23-year-old Air Force lieutenant.

State police identified him as Charles G. Pettit IV of Edgewater, Md. They said he had been transferred to Wright-Patterson Air Base in Dayton, Ohio, from Florida.

English Police Hunt for Killer

Maniac Slew Girl With Kitchen Knife

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—Police seeking the maniac killer who beheaded a girl with a kitchen knife warned today that "no woman in Britain is safe."

Since last Wednesday night, when the headless body of 29-year-old Sidney Stephanie Baird was found in a YWCA hostel, the biggest manhunt in the history of Britain's industrial Midlands has steadily built up.

"We are looking for a killer who may strike again at any moment," said a senior police officer.

Police toured the city with loud-speaker cars appealing for clues; flashed messages on movie screens, and broadcast to football crowds.

Sunday night, 27-year-old Evelyn Peake said she believed she came face to face with a blood-soaked killer as he was making his escape.

Mrs. Peake got off a bus near her home 250 yards from the YWCA hostel.

"I saw a young man slumped against a wall of a house," she said.

"At first I thought he was drunk. But by the light of a street lamp I could see he appeared to be in pain."

"I walked over to him with two men. One of them said to him: 'Blimey mate, what have you been doing?'"

The man—his face was dirty and his clothing blood-stained—replied: "I fell down in a garden. I'll be all right when I get on a bus."

The woman said the man lurched onto the bus, which carried him away.

N. Jackson Marine Injured In Crash

BEDFORD, Pa. (AP)—One Marine was killed and three others were injured as their auto collided head-on with a tractor-trailer Sunday.

The Marines, all from Ohio, were headed back to Camp Lejeune, N.C.

State police said the auto was trying to pass another vehicle on Route 126 five miles south of near-by Breezewood when the crash occurred.

Gary J. Ranchel, 18, of Lima, Ohio, died in Bedford County Memorial Hospital shortly after the crash.

Injured were David R. DeYarman, 19, of East Liverpool; Wilbur Steigewalt, 21, of Wadsworth; and Irvin E. Carnes, 18, of North Jackson.

The truck driver, Arthur J. Brown of Portsmouth, Va., escaped injury.

heavy. An average of more than six persons were killed each hour during the 78-hour holiday period which started at 6 p. m. (local time) Christmas Eve and ended at midnight Sunday.

Late reports undoubtedly will boost the total.

But it appeared likely that the final death toll will be less than the pre-holiday estimate of 530 made by the National Safety Council.

The staggering toll, however, far exceeds the number that would be killed on the highways during a non-holiday weekend period of the same length at this time of year. The council estimated 370.

The Associated Press in a survey during a non-holiday period earlier this month, covering 78 hours, counted 324 traffic fatalities. The survey also showed 22 deaths in fires and 68 killed in miscellaneous type accidents.

The weather played an important part in this season's accident death toll, safety experts said. Blowing snow and ice-glazed highways made driving conditions hazardous in many parts of the Plains states and the northern Midwest. Fog also showed travel in many areas.

Millions of homeward bound holiday motorists added to the driving hazards. Law enforcement

Yule Lighting Judging Set Tuesday Night

A total of 80 entries in the Christmas home lighting and decorating contest will be judged Tuesday night.

Nearly half of the entries were submitted within the past few days before the Saturday deadline for submitting entry blanks, it was announced by Glenn Robbins, the chairman of the contest committee.

The annual event is sponsored again by the Lions Club.

Twenty-three prizes in six different classification will be awarded on the basis of judging to be made by a group of lighting experts from Youngstown, including Leon Friedman, an architect; Thomas Dutton of the General Electric Co.; John McCormick of Westinghouse; James Torborn of the Carlson Electric Co.; and Don Chamberlain of the Ohio Edison Co.

Judging will be based on neatness, originality and the Christmas theme, it was explained.

Lorain Man Escapes From Honor Camp

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Melvin Frank Lowe, 38, serving a 10-to-25-year sentence for armed robbery, has escaped from Zanesville honor camp, Ohio Penitentiary Warden Beryl C. Sacks said today.

Lowe, sentenced from Lorain County in June, 1949, was found missing in a Sunday midnight check at the honor camp, the warden said. He was transferred to the camp from the penitentiary Oct. 30.

Ohio Fatality Total Much Under Estimate

17 Persons Killed In Traffic, 4 Others Victims of Fires

By The Associated Press
Traffic 17
Fires 4
Miscellaneous 7
Total 28

Ohio motorists had a pleasant Christmas surprise for safety officials the 78-hour holiday weekend just past.

Reported traffic fatalities ran much lower than the rate indicated to keep pace with predictions for the combined Christmas and New Year's weekend total. New Year's weekend drivers will have to go on quite an accident binge to push the total up to the 55 deaths forecast for the two weekend by the Highway Safety Department.

The traffic death toll from 6 p. m. Thursday, Christmas Eve, through midnight Sunday was smaller than the total for several single days around Christmas in recent years. It didn't even reach the amount recorded the previous weekend, a "normal" period of only 54 hours.

17 Killed In Traffic

Regardless of all this, the statistics are of no consolation to survivors of the 17 who did perish on the state's highways, byways and streets the past weekend.

Along with them died four persons in fires and seven in miscellaneous accidents for an Ohio weekend fatality count of 28 in The Associated Press survey.

Staying home didn't prove safe for everyone, either. All four fire victims were killed in their homes.

So were six of those killed in miscellaneous fashion, including four (two each in two instances) by carbon monoxide asphyxiation and two in falls downstairs.

There were a pair of double-fatals among the vehicle mishaps. The fatalities:

Thursday Night
Ralph Linscott, 44, of Hemlock (Perry County), in an auto collision on Ohio 75 south of New Lexington.

Friday
James E. Harmon, 25, of West Richfield, when his car left a Summit County road north of Akron and crashed.

Oren Duhl, 15, when fire destroyed a residence in Mad River Twp., near Dayton.

Mrs. Bertha Mauney, 41, and Jackie Johnson 5½ months, of apparent carbon monoxide asphyxiation in the woman's Cincinnati apartment.

Martha Israel, 2, suffocated in a fire at her home in University Heights, Cleveland suburb.

Joseph Salak, about 80, apparently burned to death when his clothing caught fire at his home in Broadview Heights, Cleveland suburb.

Mrs. Bessie Pestak, 75, of Independence, when she tumbled down the stairs of a relatives' home at Strongsville.

Manuel Valentin, 22, of Youngstown, in an auto collision in Youngstown.

Mrs. Herman Gavin, 36, of Cleveland, when her husband's car hit a utility pole in Cleveland.

Mrs. Emma Hightower, 99, of Addyston (Hamilton County), in a fire that swept through her home.

Pennsylvania Pike Crash Fatal to 2

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Two persons were killed and five others injured in a two-car crash on the Pennsylvania Turnpike two miles west of the Allegheny Valley Interchange Sunday.

Killed were Mrs. Eleanor Keilman, 26, of Oaks, Pa., driver of one car, and Andrew Sank, 44, of Cleveland, an occupant of the other vehicle.

Jack Keilman, 28, husband of the dead woman, was in critical condition. An 18-month-old boy and a 9-month-old girl, children of the Keilmans, were admitted in fair condition.

Admitted in critical condition were Ann Sank, 43, wife of the dead man, and Waldo P. Sank, 50, of Cleveland, his brother and driver of the car.

Police said the eastbound Keilman car crossed the medial strip and collided with the Sank car.

Transportation Strike Looms In New York

Walkout on Jan. 1 Endorsed by 4,000 Union Members

NEW YORK (AP)—Four thousand transportation workers have authorized a strike aimed at halting all subways and buses in the city the minute 1960 arrives.

Such a strike could create a monumental jam of revelers in this city famous for its Times Square New Year's Eve throngs.

Members of the Transport Workers Union packed the Manhattan Center Sunday to unanimously endorse the strike.

Threatened Strike Often

However, the TWU has never before struck the subway system. It has threatened to often and has taken countless strike votes. The union last stopped the operation of private bus lines in 1953. But it was another union—the Motor-men's Benevolent Assn., now merged with the TWU—that conducted an eight-day subway strike in December 1957.

A special committee set up by Mayor Robert F. Wagner meets today with representatives of the union, the Transit Authority and seven private bus lines to try to avert a strike. At the same time, another committee of the city department heads meet to talk about how to handle such a strike should it come.

"The city will be prepared to meet any eventuality that might arise in this situation," said Wagner.

Would Involve 38,000
The strike would involve approximately 38,000 workers on the subways, city-owned buses and private bus lines. They want a 15 per cent increase in wages, which now range from $2.04½ to $2.72 an hour.

The union's contract with the Transit Authority expires Jan. 1, but its pact with the private bus lines ended Dec. 1. That contract has been extended twice to expire at the same time as the transit authority pact.

Blast Near Gasoline Barge Imperils Town

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. (AP)—For three hours it was touch and go in this north coast harbor town.

A tug boat exploded next to a barge loaded with 800,000 gallons of high octane gasoline.

When the peril ended Sunday, one man was missing and believed dead, another was burned. Four were pitched into the bay by the force of the morning blast.

The downtown district of Crescent City a community of 2,750, was evacuated. Fishing boats, tied up during the holidays, lifted anchor. Many carried local residents.

The blast had the force of an earthquake in the waterfront area. It was felt as far away as Brookings, Ore., 30 miles to the north.

The missing man was Gordon McCullen, 23, of Seattle, a deck hand on the tug Celio. The vessel belonged to the Upper Columbia River Towing Co., Portland, Ore. and had just arrived from San Francisco with the gasoline-laden barge.

Hospitalized with burns was Lawrence Hanson, 31, of Port-town, Wash.

Hanson said gas from the 97-foot barge spilled and "was sucked in to the engine room through a vent-lator. The engine room filled with gasoline vapor."

"The diesel engines ran wild." A Coast Guard cutter pumped water on the tug while the entire Crescent City Fire Department—plus volunteers—fought shore-side fires and flash fires aboard the highly volatile barge.

It had been unloading gasoline into underground pipes which carry the fuel to tanks south of the city.

Charter Plan Suggested To Aid City's Finances

Lloyd M. Gordon, an advocate of the charter form of city government and an independent candidate for mayor in Salem four years ago, suggested today that the city manager form of government might be the solution to Salem's financial problem because of "economies which could be effected."

In discussing the city manager plan in light of the City Council's plan for an income tax to raise additional needed operating funds, Mr. Gordon said:

"Cities all over the country have been facing the same problem that Salem is confronted with—need for more services, inflationary costs to perform normal services, and not enough revenue to do the job."

"The history of city manager form of government reads like a story book. Cities, (many the size of Salem) that have adopted this plan, have been able to increase their present services, raise employee wages to conform with the inflationary trend, and with no need for additional funds. The economies that are effected are tremendous."

"It is true that such a plan could not become operative for two years, and it is questionable if it would be desirable prior to that time, as we have just recently elected a mayor to serve for a two-year term."

"It is true, too, that Salem needs additional money now. I think the people in Salem would cooperatively endorse the plan that Mr. Koenreich and his hard-working committee have proposed if: 1. It were definitely understood, and so written in the law, that the tax would be for only two years. 2. Council would take immediate and active steps to study and explore all facets of city manager form of government. (This has been promised us in campaign pledges from both parties). 3. Council would set up the necessary machinery so that they would give the voters of Salem the opportunity to vote for city manager form of government. This vote would take place in time for us to have city management two years from now."

"This is a critical time in Salem."

Holiday Mail Here Showed Decrease

Postal cancellations at the Salem Post Office showed a decrease of 10,740 pieces, compared to the same period in 1958.

December cancellations of holiday mail through Dec. 25, totaled 651,190 for 1959, compared to 661,930 for 1958.

The peak day for cancellations this season was Dec. 15, when 62,310 pieces were processed.

LISBON — The post office had 200,389 cancellations for the first 23 days of December, according to Postmaster Howard E. Hochmann. This is 3,615 short of last year when cancellations were 204,004.

The highest total day during the month was 21,825 on Dec. 16. Last year's best day was 20,960.

Roads Closed; Hundreds of Cars Stalled

Heavy Snow Warning Out; Much Colder Weather on Way

By The Associated Press
Winter's most severe storm hammered wide sections of the Midwest today, stranding motorists and curtailing travel.

Blizzard conditions prevailed in some areas in the path of the heavy snow and strong winds from Kansas northward through the Dakotas, eastern Nebraska and northeastward into western Iowa and southwestern Minnesota.

Many highways in northwestern Missouri, southwestern Iowa and southeastern Nebraska were clogged by heavily drifted snow.

Heavy Snow Warnings
Heavy snow warnings—from 4 to 8 inches—were issued for parts of the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa. Winds of 30 to 50 m.p.h. were forecast during the day and much colder weather appeared on the way.

Hundreds of automobiles were reported stalled in parts of the storm belt Sunday.

All bus traffic out of Lincoln, Neb., was halted Sunday night because of the snow-packed glazed highways. Some 300 cars were reported stalled at various times on highways in the area.

Rainy and foggy weather was reported in other Midwest areas, but the rain was expected to change to snow during the day as colder air moves southeastward.

In contrast to the stormy conditions in the Mid-Continent, unseasonably warm weather prevailed in the eastern sections of the country. Warm, moist southerly winds for the past few days sent temperatures to record or near record marks for the date in many cities.

Brought Heavy Rains
The southerly winds also brought heavy rains to the Mississippi Valley. Three persons were killed in a plane crash in Sibley, La., when the plane reported hit a squall line.

Snow fell during the night in most of New England but it was expected to turn to rain in southern coastal areas and to freezing rain in interior southern sections.

Foreman of Stark Jury To Be Named

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Mark McElroy, Ohio's attorney general, and Common Pleas Judge John Rosetti confer here today on choice of a foreman for a special grand jury to probe Stark County vice.

They also are scheduled to set in motion machinery for the selection of the 15-man jury panel. McElroy's administrative assistant, Don Robertson, said Sunday night that after the jurors are chosen, subpoenas for more than 100 witnesses will be issued—probably early next week.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle ordered the county-wide investigation after receiving a complaint from a former grand jury foreman, Edward Turkle of Alliance. Turkle wrote the governor about six months ago that local authorities were proving unable to deal with the county's crime and vice.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Joseph R. Ralston will be special prosecutor for the grand jury. He has been in charge of an investigation which has resulted in lengthy reports that will be submitted to the jurors.

County Health Office Reminds on Licenses

LISBON — Food service, trailer parks, garbage and scavenger licenses must be renewed by Jan. 1, according to Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioner.

Any person getting their licenses after that date are subject to a fine, he said.

The permits are obtainable at the health office, third floor of the Courthouse.

Man Repeats Slaying Account Hunt for Painesville Murder Gun Futile

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Floyd E. (Gene) Hargrove reiterated in a stenographic statement Sunday night that he was the sniper whose rifle shot on Christmas Eve killed the husband of the woman he loved.

Edward R. Ostrander, Lake County prosecutor, told newsmen he was satisfied Hargrove fired the fatal bullet through a kitchen window at Charles R. Clark, 35. Ostrander, however, said he was disappointed with some details in the statement.

It was to be typed and handed to Hargrove for his signature today.

The statement was substantially the same as an oral admission Hargrove made on his 35th birthday Saturday night, Ostrander said.

County authorities acknowledged they were having trouble finding evidence to support Hargrove's account. The prosecutor said he still was mulling over a decision whether to file charges. Hargrove, divorced father of five, is being held as a material witness.

Hargrove also has told of an eight-month love affair with Clark's beautiful brunette wife, Lois, 30-year-old mother of four. She has admitted the affair, adding that her husband was not aware of it.

All day Sunday skin divers hunted in vain in Lake Erie near the spot where Hargrove said he stood when he hurled the .22-caliber rifle into the water. There were 19 Civil Defense Organization skin divers in the search at its peak. They found nothing.

"If he threw the gun into the water where he said he did, we should have found it in an hour," said John Berger, diving team leader.

Ostrander said Hargrove insisted he stood 40 feet back on the patio of the Clark home in nearby Mentor when he fired the rifle. The prosecutor pointed out the patio extends back only 15 feet.

The prosecutor said there were several other vague points in Hargrove's statement, made in a three-hour session as a stenographer transcribed the account.

As to the truthfulness of Hargrove's statement, Sheriff William B. Evans said: "I've got an open mind."

Mrs. Clark, who is under sedation, has admitted having affairs with six men in addition to Hargrove during the last five or six years, the sheriff said. Three of these men were scheduled to take polygraph tests.

If her condition permits, Mrs. Clark also will have her story tested by the machine, police said.

The slain man was a Boy Scout leader and Methodist Sunday School superintendent. In his $10,000-a-year job he was a design engineer and liaison man for his electrical engineering firm on Navy contracts.

First college in the United States to admit both men and women was Oberlin College, Ohio, in 1833.

Zero Results Produced by Steel Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's board of inquiry moves back into the stalemated steel dispute today in an atmosphere of rising tension and thickening gloom.

Joseph F. Finnegan, chief federal mediator, said negotiations Sunday between industry and United Steelworkers bargaining teams produced "zero" results. There were reports that some of the scores of individual company negotiations staged simultaneously Sunday were getting results worse than zero. A few negotiators emerged to tell reporters that relations seemed to be deteriorating instead of improving.

New meetings were scheduled today for most of the 11 company groups which were assembled in Washington, as well as by many of the approximately 80 company and union negotiators of smaller steel firms across the country.

President David J. McDonald of the USW indicated this might be the last try for company-by-company settlements by which he had hoped to crack the steel industry's solid front.

Eisenhower's three-man fact finding board scheduled separate morning sessions with the union and industry negotiating teams. The fact finders also scheduled an afternoon session at which the companies were to make their "last offer."

This offer will be submitted to a secret ballot of the 500,000 steelworkers about the middle of next month unless there is a break in the meantime. If they reject, as they are expected to do, the steelworkers will be free to resume on Jan. 26 the walkout which shut down the nation's steel mills for 116 days.

Who said— lost jobs and speed-ups? Not the Steel Companies! They're interested in more and better jobs for steelworkers

Steel companies have no under-cover plan to fire workers or speed up operations. Actually the companies' proposal to modernize local working conditions clauses in the labor contracts simply invites the Union to cooperate in ending some out-of-date, inefficient practices. These gradually develop and become "frozen" under previous contracts.

The steel companies don't want to lose valued employees. It's plain good business to keep a man on the payroll after he has been trained and has gained practical experience.

As their specific proposal to the Union points out they contemplate retraining and placement of any employees that might be affected. And they will not place undue work burdens on anybody.

The proposal to modernize local working conditions will make steelworkers' jobs more secure. Also it will provide opportunities for employees to progress.

And ultimately this proposal should create more jobs as the steel industry becomes more efficient and its markets expand.

The greatest job security is a busy, growing industry.

Joint Committee Proposed to Study the "Local Working Conditions" Question

The companies' proposal to the Union is to submit the following question to joint study by the Union and the companies, and then, if necessary, to impartial arbitration for a final and binding decision:

"What, if any, changes should be made in the local working conditions provisions of the basic labor agreements to enable the Companies to take reasonable steps to improve efficiency and eliminate waste, with due regard for the welfare of the employees involved, including: the avoidance of undue work burdens; and, to the extent practicable, the retraining and placement on available jobs in the plant, of any employees affected by such steps?"

This Is One Kind of "Local Working Condition" the Steel Companies Are Seeking to Correct

During World War II bus service was sharply curtailed. To help the employees of one department in a steel mill, management agreed to let them quit work a quarter of an hour early to wash up and catch their buses. This established a local working condition.

Although the war is long since over and normal bus service restored, the Union insists that the early quit time is an established local working condition and must be continued.

HealthHints

Area Chiropractors

A degree of happiness is attainable by everybody who seeks it. The rich or poor, the important and unimportant, can enjoy life—even the lazy can enjoy their laziness. But none of these can be happy without the principal ingredient—good health. All hopes of ambition, in any field, depend on good health. Without it, life is nothing. Yet most people are less concerned about health than about their car and take less care of their bodies.

One of the most important factors in maintaining good health is an unobstructed nervous system, for this is the origin of our well-being. The central nerves are encased in the spine. They branch out between the vertebrae to all parts of the body. If the flow of nerve energy is cut off en route to its designated part of the body, then the deprived part will function abnormally. Headaches, eyestrain, upset stomach, and a multitude of disturbances ensue. A person then becomes ill, and any form of happiness is greatly decreased, for it can be enjoyed but little.

A thorough check-up of the nervous system is as important as happiness itself since it will contribute toward that end. The development of strong muscles, exercise, correct posture, and relaxation are contributing factors. But the necessity of a check-up on the integrity of the nervous system, by your doctor of chiropractic, is both wise and productive. The normal flow of nerve force increases normal resistance to disease and creates buoyant health which ensures a greater degree of happiness.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

That's the operational pattern the Justice Department discovered during its two-year probe of the Apalachin department of the Mafia.

There is no link between that crime conclave and the Touhy lead poisoning but the pattern is the same. Here is a part of the Apalachin saga that has never been told. I report this so you will know how the second government operates:

There were at least 75 criminals and their friends at the isolated home of Joe Barbara that Nov. 14, 1957 — not 63, as has been reported. This was not a crime convention. This was a regular meeting of the "board of directors" of the multimillion-dollar criminal business syndicate.

Differentiate this from the strictly gambling mob or the narcotics rings — though they are intertwined.

Before the main gathering, which was the center of the federal trial, there were a series of small sessions in other cities.

At these earlier "meets," special groups drew up agenda for presentation to the big board.

One of the regional preparatory conferences was held in the Hotel Casey, Scranton, Pa., on Nov. 13. This was the day before the full group of syndicate directors met.

THEN THEY GATHERED at Apalachin and finished their business early on the morning of Nov. 14. But they couldn't disperse until their tentative decisions were approved by the executive board of the syndicate operation.

This consisted of a small band of men whose plans were to come, listen, make their decisions and leave Barbara's home as quickly as possible.

Whether they are the high command of this syndicate or were answerable to two or three others who sit on a national executive council, no one knows.

We know only that this swift moving executive group of urbane men consisted of the hitherto unblemished, eminently respectable John Montana of Buffalo Joe Profaci, Brooklyn's gift to the olive oil business; Mike Miranda, who prefers to be known as a successful automobile salesman; Vito Genovese, multi-millionaire New Jersey squire, now convicted on a narcotics ring rap and one Jerry Catena, another Jersey gentleman.

TYPICAL of the speed with which they were scheduled to move, I learn from the federales, is the abortive heira of Mike Miranda, a powerful man indeed.

He took an early morning plane out of Newark airport. He arrived in Binghamton, near Apalachin, at 10:45. He sped to the "board of directors" meeting and began being briefed in a hurry.

He had to leave Barbara's home to catch a two o'clock plane out of Binghamton. His departure was disrupted by circumstances beyond his control. The police arrived.

Just what this inner executive board had to approve is not known. So the government decided to get the entire board of directors on charges of conspiring to lie to the authorities.

Mark this well. The syndicators of the '30s were gotten on income tax raps. Those who think they are untouchable today — in the labor movement as well — will be gotten on this new charge.

THE CHARGE included the words "to defraud the United State and to commit offenses against the United States."

These words have been overlooked by the public. They mean that no man need be charged with violating any specific law. He can merely be charged with conspiring with others to tell a lie to a law enforcement official or an appointee of a court.

This is of great interest to those observing the muscle men inside some labor unions. The muscle men may not violate any labor laws, Internal Revenue statutes or the racketeering ban. They may simply sit with their union aides or outside advisers and plot to defy a Landrum-Griffin regulation or a court order passed on through, say, a union monitor.

They would then be subject to the same punishment for which precedent was set in the Mafia case. The "board of directors" meeting at Apalachin may have served some purpose after all. Fascinating precedent, isn't it?

This And That

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Most Americans aren't snooty. In a recent poll only three percent felt they belonged to "the upper class," and only two percent admitted membership in "the lower class." The overwhelming majority felt they were in either "the working class" or "the middle class."

Did you know more man-caused forest fires start on Sunday than any other day? The reason is simple. That's when more city slickers go camping or hunting.

Patriotic papa: Paul Reeve was one of the busiest of our Founding Fathers. He had 16 children—8 each by 2 wives. And by the way, do you know offhand the first name of George Washington's father? It was Augustine.

The medical theory behind penicillin and other popular antibiotics isn't really new. The Chinese were using soybean mold to treat disease 1,000 years before Christ. Chinese monks also perfected another kind of self-defense, jujitsu, about 2,000 years ago.

Our quotable notables: "Too much power and particularly too much riches are the bane of republics"—Harry S. Truman.

Do you keep a gun in your house? Then it might interest you to know that of some 15,000 accidental shooting casualties each year in the United States, including 2,500 fatalities, about half take place in the home.

Nature lore: If you pick up a queen bee in your hand, she won't sting you. She uses her royal stinger only on other queen bees. Father bees, known as drones, won't sting you either, as they have no stinger.

How do you tell a mountain from a molehill? This is the usual test: To be considered a mountain, the land must rise sharply by at least 1,000 feet.

Signs of the times: Outside a marriage license bureau, "Are you fit to be tied?"

The term "bootleggin'" pre-dates the prohibition era. It originated with the men who peddled whisky illegally to the Indians. They carried the bottles of forbidden firewater concealed in the legs of their boots.

Sir Winston Churchill, who once gambled for the highest stakes in human history, used to like to play bezique. But now his favorite card game is draw poker.

Family problem: Some 400,000 children under 12 in the United States have to care for themselves while their mothers work—in the wealthiest land on earth.

How to stay young: "To forget," says author Erich Maria Remarque, "is the secret of eternal youth."

Historical note: Can you name which president was in office when the World War I ended? It was Warren G. Harding, not Woodrow Wilson. The treaties officially ending the war with Germany and Austria Hungary weren't ratified until July 2, 1921, although hostilities actually ended Nov. 11, 1918.

Pine Room Divider Is Functional And Adds Beauty

If you'd like to separate the cooking area from the eating area of your kitchen, if your front entrance opens directly into the living room, or if you would like to incorporate a dressing room with your bathroom, the answer to your problem may lie in building an attractive room divider out of paneling or ordinary lumber.

For example, the kitchen might be improved by creating a definite dining nook behind a divider of solid paneling, either stained or painted to match your kitchen decor. On the other hand, your problem may be that you get a blast of air every time someone enters the living room through the front door. Here, a divider made of vertical louvers might act as a windbreak and add an eye-catching accent to the decor.

Then, too, if you have an old house with a big bathroom, you might build a divider of upright two-by-fours in a louvered pattern, one of open blockwork made by two-by-fours cut into short lengths or, perhaps, lumber set in a geometric design. Any of these will set off a handy dressing room area.

An excellent choice of lumber or paneling for these dividers would be any of the ten species from the western pine region. All are economical and easy to work with, but you may be able to make a further saving by shopping around for short lengths which often work very well in this sort of project. Check to see what your lumber dealer has in stock.

You'll also find that the western pine species work well out of doors when properly treated with preservative, and, indoors, they will take any stain, clear or pigmented finish, or paint you may prefer in keying them to your present decor or creating a fresh one.

What Would Be The Price Of 'Victory'?

Betting odds favor a Yes vote on resuming the United Steelworkers strike when the Taft-Hartley injunction expires at the end of January.

On the basis of previous votes of this kind, it's a good bet unionists would vote to uphold the policy of union leadership.

But if the policy-makers of the Steelworkers asked for such a vote and got it, they would be risking a "victory" they could not afford.

They would be renewing the steel strike while Congress was reconvening.

They would be precipitating a national showdown on labor policy in a national election year, with four other major industrial contracts coming up for discussion—railroads, automobiles, electrical appliances and communications.

The effect would be to issue a challenge to Congress to prove what Congress was challenged to prove in 1947, when public reaction from widespread labor trouble forced the Taft-Hartley Act into existence—that it could protect the public interest.

EVERY PROPOSAL made thus far to increase public protection against industrywide strikes—every idea that has been kicked around by the politicians who are itching to get their fingers into the problem—would be poison for union leadership.

All the ideas would have the same effect: They would take the strike decision out of the hands of unions and put it into the hands of outsiders.

This would be true of both voluntary and compulsory arbitration. It wouldn't matter what the union policy-makers judged to be desirable; arbitrators would decide what was desirable.

It would be true of all the various kinds of super-boards being talked about. Whether it was their job to find facts that presumably would be so bone-crushing in their impact that no one could withstand them, or to define issues so precisely that everything would fall into place automatically, the super-boards would eliminate the principal reason for union leadership; namely, to determine what was best for union members.

Even seizure of the steel mills would be as tough a break for union leadership as it would be for management, because the union then would be negotiating with the government—a tiny minority negotiating with the representatives of the whole nation.

Decentralization of contract-making and removal of the 80-day limit on the Taft-Hartley injunction also have been proposed. Union leadership would be penalized by both and eventually reduced to impotency.

THERE IS ONLY one way all these proposals could be made meaningless, only one way Congress could be given something better to think about when it reconvenes than a punitive law to prevent industrywide strikes, only one way to preserve free collective bargaining in the United States.

That is for the Steelworkers to reach agreement on a new contract for the steel industry before the end of the Taft-Hartley injunction next month. That would neutralize the issue and cancel the question.

Otherwise, it is the safest bet there is in public affairs that the first order of business in 1960 would be for government to assert its authority over labor union and union leaders. If the unions and their leaders want to look after their own interests, they will not make the government crack down on them.

If challenged, the government has no choice but to assert its superior authority.

A Billion Dollars

In the totting up of U.S. money invested in economic aid, Spain was ticked off at $1,100,000,000 dollars when the books were closed on the 1958-1959 fiscal year last June 30.

In addition to this, an additional 363 million dollars had been spent for military aid to Spanish military forces. For the current fiscal year, U.S. aid to Spain, including technical cooperation and defense support, is programmed for 41 million dollars.

This was the financial background for President Eisenhower's inclusion of a visit to Spain during his tour. It was the least popular point of call on the itinerary. The Franco regime in Spain has been a sore point in U.S. foreign policy.

The United States supported a motion at the San Francisco conference on the United Nations Charter in 1945 to bar from membership any regime that had been affiliated with enemies of the allies of World War II. In 1946, the United States supported a resolution calling on U.N. members to withdraw their heads of diplomatic missions from Madrid.

The issue in that now distant time was whether or not Franco's dictatorship, which had come to power with the aid of Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy, could be trusted to cooperate with governments that had fought Germany and Italy in World War II.

Spain finally was admitted to the United Nations in 1955, and France now is agitating for its admission to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The U.S. Congress called upon President Eisenhower in a concurrent resolution in 1957 to do everything possible to bring Spain into the NATO fold; both chambers previously had adopted similar resolutions. Political pressure in Spain's behalf has been overwhelming.

In 1950, the United States appointed its first post-World War II ambassador to Spain. In 1953, a deal for U.S. bases and extension of military and economic aid was signed. The facts make clear what emotion has obscured—that Spain belonged on President Eisenhower's itinerary as much as any other place he visited. A billion dollars plus cannot be disregarded.

Do Parents Practice Safety?

An expert on driving safety served up some food for thought the other day when he said that some teen-agers have no regard for safe driving because their parents do not believe in it.

Anticipating screams of protest from parents, he went on to say that they claim they believe in safe driving, but belie their claims with their behavior.

He could have made his point another way—by quoting an old saw: "Practice what you preach."

Any parent who has been taken to task by his offspring for "pushing" a red light or letting the speedometer needle creep past the legal limit knows what the expert was talking about.

There are a lot of ways parents can fall into this trap.

Some of them have been operating motor vehicles for so long they become too complacent about their good fortune in avoiding accidents and take on habits which reflect not so much deliberate recklessness as unconscious carelessness.

Many know what to tell their children when concentrating on the rule of safe driving, but allow their minds to be encumbered with myriad other thoughts when they are not instructing.

Some are the proverbial sadists of modern driving—ordinarily gentle, courteous, law-abiding citizens who turn into offensive, rude demons when they get behind the wheel of an automobile and start exerting their "rights."

Whatever the reason, the result is apt to be an impression in the mind of the young observer that mother or father does not really believe all that "hogwash" handed out during driving lessons.

It all boils down to the fact that example as good a teacher as experience.

Parents could do a lot less worrying about turning the keys to the family chariot over to their driving youngsters if they thought more about the kind of driving they do than the kind of driving they teach.

By H. I. Phillips

"Some parents complained the kids believed too deeply in the hoofbeats of my deer on every roof. I thought I might have to issue a statement that often the hoofbeats had to be augmented through sound effects and that in cases where the chimneys and fireplaces were pretty small it should be clearly understood there were technical deceptions."

"Well, you should feel great now after hearing the laughter and gay chatter of all the children Christmas morning," we said. "I hope it was the real thing and not a taped recording," he said dismally.

ALTHOUGH UNCLE SAM is spending $30,000,000 for airport in Afghanistan, Ike had to land on one completed by Russia. This must have been an embarrassing moment.

Mayor Wagner of New York must greet each new dawn with "Well, what's today's latest headache?"

Nelson Rockefeller says if he ever gets to the White House he will sell all his securities and dispose of other holdings that might create "conflict of interest." Oh, well, he can always retain a spectator interest in the Radio City skating rink.

An American who renounced American citizenship and went to Germany and broadcast for Hitler has been dropped from a teaching post in an American college. Somehow or other this fails to qualify as the tearjerker of 1959.

"Go It Alone" Charlie

Speaking of Gambling

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Most of the publicity about crime and the mythical Mafia arises from a hypocrisy that is peculiar and almost local to the United States.

That hypocrisy is the ridiculous popular belief that gambling is vicious and that professional gamblers must be very bad men. But the few professionals are only the conspicuous captains of this commerce. Their clients, like the clientele of the bootlegger, outnumber the masters by hundreds or thousands to one; for the zest for gambling is comparable to the appetite for booze and no more indecent.

IF IT BE HELD THAT Frank Costello is a common criminal then Earl Warren is a common politician. So what? Costello is not a criminal gambler in the eyes of any court. He is brilliant by contrast with Warren's dullness. But Costello is serving five years for an extremely technical and flimsy violation of a law which was adopted to raise revenue and not to put him in prison for impudence in bribing crooked sheriffs to let him run slot machines.

Insurance Bogey Man

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Inflation is the bogey man of every one holding fixed-dollar life insurance. How much of the necessities of life will its dollar value purchase when called upon?

It's also a worrisome thing to those who sell life insurance. Their prospects ask: Should I put my savings into other forms of investment which might roll with inflation's punches and thus preserve their purchasing power? And the competition for these savings is great today.

Life insurance companies and the Institute of Life Insurance have given top priority to the fight to ward off further trimming of the dollar's value. That this decline, now called creeping inflation, has been going on in recent months is shown in the cost-of-living index.

The dollar's weakness more than offset the climb in average per capita income in 1958, says the Commerce Department. So, on average, citizens were a little less well off than before when it came to spending their bigger intake.

Even worse off were those living on their pensions or their husband's insurance, whose dollar income didn't climb with the average.

Thus life insurance companies find themselves competing with mutual funds and common stocks and real estate, all touted as hedges against inflation, and with the emergence in their own ranks of variable annuities — insurance backed by reserves invested in stocks and offering payments based on returns from stocks.

Few question the worth of the Institute's fight to keep the dollar strong. But one life insurance official takes up the cudgels for the permanent value of life insurance.

Charles H. Schaff, executive vice president of Massachusetts Mutual Life, suspects a lot of time may be wasted in guessing how the dollar will rank in the future.

He jibes at insurance's competitors this way:

"Whether you buy stocks or bonds or mutual funds, or put your dollar in a savings account, or hide it under a mattress, the dollar may be worth 50 cents or 75

I could cite ten cases in half a day on the phone of tax-dodgers who walked out of the federal district courts absolutely free after pleading guilty of gross frauds against the treasury. Costello denied guilt and it took 19 judges finally to find him guilty in a poll amounting to an election.

Newspaper people know that the called underworld's monopoly on gambling is the creation of legislators, not the underworld. There was no more popular demand for such laws than there was for prohibition. There is no more moral justification. Gambling is not wrong.

IF GAMBLING WERE made legal tomorrow all over the United States, the country would soon adjust to the commonplace convenience of horseparlors and Keno layouts. In Kansas City, when Harry Truman was chairman of the county board under and by the selection of Tom Pendergast, gambling houses were as wide open as police stations and brothels, which, also were regulated by the machine. These were decent gambling houses. They were outside the law, but the proprietors and employees were not the primary criminals. Pendergast was the arch-criminal who corrupted free government for power and money. I cannot conjure the practical reality if gambling were suddenly legalized. I think sharp, cunning persons would be attracted by the great possibilities and the swift action.

Joe Kennedy's career in a field of gambling called "finance," and Barney Baruch's about 25 years before Joe struck it rich, suggest that wide open, legal, gambling would thrust into prominence men of enormous superficial charm and wit, lawabiding Costellos, if you will.

It may seem irreverent in our present but fading frame of mind to imagine a common gambler who the public would regard as the elder statesman of his time. But we have had some in the past who almost made it.

HONEST JOHN KELLY, of New York was waning when I met him a few times in his dusty old rooms in a redstone front in the 'Forties off Broadway. He had a flippant, cynical parrot which squawked over and over "Honest John Kelly, Awk-Awk-Awk!" I have suspected that this epithet was sarcastic. I also harbor a mean, ignoble thought that Herbie Swope, his press agent, first called BMB the elder statesman.

Ed Bradley, of Palm Beach, was priggishly honest in that locale in his golden years. But in Chicago he had run a clothing store on the ground floor on South Clark and a playroom upstairs which he always refused to discuss for publication. Having no accommodation for confidences, I never accepted his memoirs on those terms.

The menace of the slotmachine, the roulette and crap layouts lies in the city halls and county buildings. Revoke the laws against gambling and the artificial opportunity for bribery is destroyed and with it the criminality.

A dozen years before Jim Farley became chairman of the New York was as wicked as gambling is now. Farley made his renown as chairman of the commission and then made F. D. Roosevelt president, for better or for worse, as you may think.

Anyways, that's how he sells insurance.

Study In Frigidity

By JAMES MARLOW

Rockefeller May Be Thorn To GOP Bosses

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's a study in frigidity.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's statement Saturday—that he will not be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination—was a cold piece of business.

There was nothing friendly in it toward Vice President Richard M. Nixon or the professional Republican politicians.

Although Rockefeller's withdrawal leaves Nixon unopposed for their party's presidential nomination, the governor never mentioned Nixon's name.

Rockefeller, in fact, didn't even promise to support the Republican Party or its nominee. The most he was willing to say was that he expects to. Newsmen tried to get him to say specifically Sunday whether he would back Nixon. But he replied he would not go beyond his statement Saturday which said, in part, "I expect to support the nominees, as well as the program, of the party in 1960."

Further, it is possible to read into Rockefeller's words the idea he will be a critical thorn to both the Republican bosses and the Eisenhower administration before the Republican convention opens in Chicago July 25.

Rockefeller, in stepping aside, at no place indicated he felt the majority of rank-and-file Republicans preferred Nixon over him or even that he wouldn't have a chance against Nixon if he did oppose him.

He put his reason for withdrawing squarely on the "great majority of those (Republicans) who will control" the convention.

This is what he said, in the sequence of his thinking:

1. The majority of professionals don't want a contest among Republicans for the nomination.

2. Therefore, in order to overcome the opposition of the pros to him, he'd have to give the rank - and - file Republicans a chance to choose between him and Nixon by going into state primaries.

3. But this would take up so much of his time and energy he couldn't properly fulfill his obligations to the people of New York who elected him to do a job as governor.

In the past few months Rockefeller, while whisking around the country to appraise his chances, was critical a number of times of the Eisenhower administration.

That he may continue to be now, from the sidelines, can be read into this part of his statement:

He listed the various issues facing the country, at home and abroad, and then said: "I will contribute all I can" toward a "profound and continuous act of national self-examination."

He said: "I shall speak with full freedom and vigor on these issues that confront our nation and the world."

Nixon now looks like a sure-shot for the Republican presidential nomination. But the future is unpredictable. And Rockefeller did not rule himself out as a possibility.

He said he would not be a candidate for the nomination. But he didn't say—as he did in the case of the vice presidency—he would not accept the nomination if it is offered to him.

So, if somehow Nixon gets sidetracked, Rockefeller is still available.

Crisis In U. S. Industry

By Dr. GEORGE S. BENSON

President, National Education Program

As the new year 1960 comes into being, Americans have many great blessings for which they should thank God and the Founding Fathers of this great Republic. Our greatest blessing and economic well-being. Freedom is the gift of God, as Thomas Jefferson noted; but the part in shaping his economic protection of this blessing is a responsibility upon mankind. Likewise the Creator provided that man himself should have a large destiny.

Our Founding Fathers set up a governmental structure designed to serve in the protection of our freedom; and growing up out of this free way of life, following the natural laws of creation, has come our productive private enterprise economic system.

This economic system, called American capitalism, has made it possible for Americans to have a far higher standard of living than any other people ever enjoyed.

BUT JUST AS THERE are blessings commanding our gratitude there also are grave problems, some of which endanger everything we hold dear, including our freedom and economic well-being. We are in a world crisis. International Communism, both militarily and in its world-wide Fifth Column and propaganda activities, threatens our existence. In World War I and in World War II, America's great industrial might turned the tide on the enemies of freedom. The production of our factories could not be matched by any combination of enemies. Our industrial might overpowered them.

In the 15 years since the end of World War II, our industrial might has actually been the only deterrent to a swift overrunning of the world by International Communism. Winston Churchill said this several times in recent years.

President Eisenhower has repeatedly said it. It is a fact that discerning people throughout the world have recognized. But today the health of America's great industrial mechanism is threatened, and with it our prosperity and our very lives.

THERE ARE TWO major factors which are curtailing the normal healthy growth and the vital strength of American industry: (1) unrealistic double taxation is smothering the incentive to invest, and (2) the swiftly rising high cost of production is pricing American goods out of the world markets and even out of our own domestic markets.

In the hardware stores in my home town today barbed-wire made in Germany and Belgium and shipped 3,000 miles by boat and train sells for $2 per spool less than barbed-wire made in our U.S. factories in Cleveland, Fort Worth and elsewhere. In the world market the differential is larger. American manufacturers now find themselves in this same high price position in hundreds of products, from women's blouses to building materials and appliances for American homes.

It is serious and disturbing. Present jobs of millions of American workers are threatened. Future jobs of millions are threatened—and each year another crop of 1,000,000 American youngsters reach working age and must have jobs.

National income — a factor in everybody's prosperity — is threatened. America's financial structure — which undergirds the well-being of every citizen — is threatened. Our world prestige — which affects the political and military alignments of nations — is threatened. Our defense against the enemy is threatened.

IT IS MY CONVICTION that this situation was the biggest factor being considered by the steel industries in their consideration of the demands of the union leaders. Direct and indirect labor costs on any manufactured product represent about 75 to 80 per cent of the total selling price, not counting taxes.

This means that any wage increase without compensating increase in a man's productive capacity forces prices up. American industry today, especially the steel industry, needs to cut prices, not raise them. The only way this could be done would be to hold down production cost and boost productivity.

As it is, American industry has its back to the wall. To try to meet the competitive challenge on the world market and here in America, some major industries have been forced to invest heavily abroad in manufacturing plants, where production costs are so much lower than in America.

It is estimated that $50 billion of American money has been invested to build factories in foreign countries. More than a million jobs have thus been created abroad which should have been created here.

Suddenly the United States has become an importing nation, importing more goods from abroad than we export—automobiles, machines, textiles, a vast array of products.

Every American has a personal stake in this worsening situation.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 47 and going through the menopause. My husband is the type who thinks this is a lot of bunk. He, however, is constantly under the doctor's care, reads medical books like most people read novels, and has a technical name for every one of his precious aches and pains.

He says menopause is natural and millions of women go through it with no trouble whatever. The "complainers" are only trying to drum up sympathy.

According to him, childbirth is a cinch, too. His mother had six with no doctor present — just a midwife. His theory is that physical changes in a woman are a part of nature and were designed by nature to be painless; modern women who complain are only trying to get attention or sympathy from men.

Will you please set him straight? —IMERE WOMAN.

Dear Mere Woman: Humans vary. Some women have been known to give birth in the back of a sedan with a sneeze but most of us sweat it out in the labor room.

The menopause hits certain women hard while others breeze through without so much as a hot flash. Any doctor will tell you that the physical and emotional changes which accompany menopause are genuine and not a conspiracy to get sympathy. Medical science has developed new drugs in the last few years which have proved a Godsend to women who have difficulty.

Since that insensitive clunk you're married to likes to read medical books, present him with one on this subject. He needs educating.

Ashamed of Gramp

Dear Ann: I'm 16 and miserable. The reason — I'm ashamed to invite the kids over or have a fellow pick me up for a date at home because of my grandfather who lives with us.

Gramp is 82 and forgetful. He never can remember where his teeth or his glasses are. He often forgets to put on his pants. Every night he sits in the living room (in his underwear) watching TV.

I've complained to Mom but she says older people should have special privileges and respect. I can see HER point but she doesn't see MINE. Do you think it's right for a girl to have to be picked up for dates at a friend's house? What is your opinion? — EMBARRASSED.

Dear Embarrassed: I agree that older people should have respect and special privileges but putting a bathrobe on Gramp does not deny him either.

You should not be forced to meet friends outside your home and Mom is rather unimaginative not to have thought of this simple solution. So long as Gramp is neat and covered you need make no apologies for him.

Wet Blanket

Dear Ann: A good friend of mine has a 7-month-old baby. When she comes to visit for the afternoon (at my invitation) she puts the baby on the sofa or the bed and places chairs around so he won't fall off. Almost without fail, there is a damp ring which I notice after they leave. I don't want to say anything to her because she's a sensitive person. I have a solution which removes the ring nicely but it's a bit of a job.

My husband says to tell her. If you can think of a more gentle way I'd appreciate it. — PHOEBE.

Dear Phoebe: Buy some rubber sheeting and put it under the baby. This solution is more practical than the solution that comes in a bottle.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a bald-headed grandfather with a bay window. He looks every day of his 61 years.

Recently his firm, a men's haberdashery and clothing store of excellent reputation started a new policy. For 80 years they had only men employees. Now they've taken on three women—a common-looking trio, all under 40, with dresses so tight they look like sausage casings.

They swap vulgar stories with the men, chuck them under the chin and make the old bucks think they're sophomores again.

I've told my old billogoat to remember his age and to stay away from these women. Should I go one step further and contact the higher-ups in the organization and suggest they throw the hussies out? —GRANDMA.

Dear Grandma: Your suggestion to the higher-ups, no matter how well intentioned, would be welcomed like a blizzard in June. They may get the notion you're trying to tell them how to run their store—perish he thought. Forget about going to the brass and please stop nagging your billogoat. You may give him ideas he never had before. A man 61 isn't exactly mummified, you know.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Freezing rain also slicked highways in northern and central parts of New York state. Travel was sharply curtailed in some areas.

Showers fell in the Lower Great Lakes region and Ohio Valley southward to the Gulf and eastward into New York and Pennsylvania. Moderate to heavy showers pelted areas from Kentucky southward into northern Alabama.

Temperatures in the East were in the 30s and 40s and ranged up to the 60s and 70s in Florida. The 30s and 40s also prevailed along the Pacific Coast.

Traffic

agencies maintained full shifts around the clock to press enforcement of traffic regulations.

The traffic death rate was higher than for the first 78 hours of last year's four-day Christmas weekend. Last year, at midnight Dec. 27, the fatalities on the highways totaled 444. For the full 102-hour period, the total was 559.

In the last three-day Christmas period, in 1955, there were 609 fatalities. The record accident death toll for any holiday period was in the 1956 four-day Christmas period. There were 706 traffic fatalities, 54 deaths from fires and 124 killed in miscellaneous accidents, an over-all record total of 884.

Spectacular Texan Figure Succumbs

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Phillip E. Fox, a spectacular and at times sensational figure in the public affairs of both Texas and Georgia, is dead at 72.

Fox was active with Dr. Hiram Wesley Evans in a struggle for control of the old Ku Klux Klan in the early 20s. In what was described as a bitter personal feud, he walked into the Atlanta, Ga., office of Capt. William Coburn, also a Klan leader, and fatally shot him.

Fox received a life sentence and served nine years in prison at Milledgeville, Ga., before Eugene Talmadge, then governor, paroled him in 1933. A year later he received a full citizenship pardon from Gov. E. D. Rivers.

Soon afterward Fox returned to Dallas where earlier he had been managing editor of the Dallas Times-Herald. He formed a public relations firm and took part in many heated Texas political campaigns, including those of W. Lee O'Daniel, for U.S. senator and Alan Shivers and the late Beaufort Jester for governor.

Fox died Sunday night of a heart attack.

Recognition Service

Held For Rev. Cope

Seventy persons attended a service of recognition for the Rev. James F. Cope Sunday afternoon in the First Methodist Church.

Rev. Cope, who was ordained last June, is assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church in Canton. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cope of the Depot Road.

"This Is Your Life" was the sermon theme presented by the Rev. Theodore Mayer of Warren, former superintendent of the Steubenville Methodist District.

The charge to Rev. Cope was given by the Rev. William Longworth, pastor of the Columbiana Methodist Church, and a member of the board of ministerial training of the North-East Ohio Methodist conference.

The Rev. William Snowball, pastor, presided at the service. The assistant pastor, the Rev. Kenneth Bowser, offered the invocation and prayer.

A reception followed in Fellowship Hall.

Telephone Operator

Foils Holdup Try

CLEVELAND (AP)—Miss Agnes Tate, night telephone operator at the Crawford Hotel, was talking with a porter at a bowling alley in South Euclid early today when she heard someone in the background saying "Act natural."

Suspecting a robbery was in progress, Miss Tate called police. Her call enabled University Heights and South Euclid police to capture two safe crackers in the act of looting The Mayflower Lanes.

When police arrived at the bowling alley they found the thieves holding Leland Harold, 40-year-old porter, at gunpoint. The would-be safe crackers dropped their guns and surrendered, police said.

TWO FORFEIT BONDS

LISBON — Two motorists forfeited bonds totaling $30 on traffic charges when they failed to appear for scheduled hearings in Mayor John Todd's court Saturday.

Donna Jean Carney, 20, of Lisbon left a $10 bond and Harold L. Donnalley, 26, of Youngstown, a $20 bond, both for reckless operation. They were cited by the village police.

TO BE TRIED—Miami Herald reporter James Buchanan, above, has been formally charged with complicity in American soldier of fortune Austin Young's escape from a Cuban prison. Buchanan was arrested in the same hotel in a Havana suburb where Young was recaptured. The newspaperman will be tried by a revolutionary tribunal.

fight. It will be Nixon, a versatile campaigner who can take a high-level stance or slug it out with the roughest.

Just how this will affect the Democrats' choice of a nominee is up in the air. Backers of each of the actual or potential candidates—they include Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass), Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.), Sen. Stuart Symington (Mo.), Johnson, California's Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown and Adlai E. Stevenson—can be counted upon to argue that their man is just the one to beat Nixon.

Some of the Democratic talk that Nixon would be easier to defeat than Rockefeller has died down since polls showed Nixon faring well. But some of it persists. Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, the Democratic vice presidential nominee in 1956, told a TV audience Sunday that Democrats will be more united against Nixon than they would have been against Rockefeller, whom Kefauver described as

Salem Snaps Cathedral Latin's 5-Game Win Streak 52-38

Contest Marked By Rough Action

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

A capacity crowd of more than 2,000 fans saw the undefeated Salem Quakers snap a five-game winning streak of Cleveland Cathedral Latin here Saturday while posting a hard fought 52-38 victory.

For the second time in three games the Quakers had to overcome a first quarter deficit to get the win. The howling crowd which jammed the doorways and aisles of the high school gym saw Salem fall behind 6-5 in a frustrating first period.

Both teams got off to a jittery start. Each of the highly touted quintet seemed surprised to find that the other wasn't quite as good as it had expected. Latin players fired 23 shots at the basket in that first quarter, but all but two came back out at them.

Salem didn't miss nearly so many shots, but their two for 11 from the field was far below the 54 per cent shooting average they took into the game.

SALEM DID find something to cheer about in the first quarter. Quaker forward Don Davidson, 6-4 repeatedly beat Latin's 6-7 1/2 star center, Al Payne, to rebounds off both buckets. He also accounted for Salem's only two goals in the period.

Just as he did in football, Davidson has shown improvement in each game. It was the same 6-4 junior who helped the Quakers to earlier victories over Columbus and East Palestine, but there was scrap there on Saturday which wasn't quite so evident before.

Salem's speedy and talented guards, Dan Krichbaum and Dave Hunter, on occasions have been just too fast for their taller but slower teammates. Davidson, who played his basketball at Columbian last year, showed Saturday how valuable an addition he can be in the Quakers' battle to return to Columbus next March.

HUNTER, WHO can easily be taken for granted because of his always steady performance, for the third straight game was high point man for Salem. The clever guard dropped in seven fielders and five fouls for 19 points after being held scoreless in the first quarter.

Payne, who entered the game with a 25-point average, was top man for Latin with 16 markers. The big boy was getting the shots Saturday night but they just weren't falling for him. Payne did lead both teams in rebounds with 16.

Davidson picked off 10 rebounds and Theiss nine for Salem. It was chiefly Theiss who had the responsibility to hold down Payne. The Latin ace was "held" to six goals, one of them coming after Theiss had left the lineup.

Jim Lehwald made his first appearance of the season for Salem with 2:07 remaining in the first quarter. He and starter Jim Solmen alternated at one forward position. East wound up with four points.

LEHWALD has been out of action since injuring a leg in a pre-season contest. Some effects of the layoff could be seen Saturday night. The 6-1 senior, however, is a proved quality from his showing last season and is almost a sure bet to nudge Solmen into the number six spot.

Although the Quakers fought back in the second quarter against Latin to take a 23-21 halftime lead, the turning point in the game came in the third quarter.

After a racehorse first half, Coach John Cabas had his boys slow the game down by setting up plays more deliberately out front.

WITH HUNTER directing traffic the Latin defenders fell back and were lulled into relaxing by the sudden change of pace by the Quakers. This proved disastrous for Cleveland because Hunter, Davidson, Krichbaum and Theiss worked themselves into the open under the bucket to break open the ball game.

Salem outscored Latin 16-6 in this quarter, with Hunter getting six of the points and Theiss five.

Hunter continued to spark the Quakers in the final quarter as Salem outscored their opponents 13-11 to wrap up the game. Payne tried to keep Latin in the fray with his steady rebounding and eight points in the final quarter but his spurge came too late.

The usually high scoring Latin

Ohio State Faces Kentucky

Other Big Ten Teams Vie In Tournaments

By The Associated Press

Big Ten basketball teams, scattered throughout the nation in holiday tournaments, hope to fatten their intersectional records before settling down to the conference race which opens Saturday.

Seven teams will be in tourney play from coast to coast Monday and Ohio State and Michigan State journey to foreign courts for competition.

Ohio State probably has the toughest assignment, since the Buckeyes play at Kentucky. Michigan State will be at Butler and idle Purdue waits until Tuesday night before entertaining Montana State.

Iowa and Wisconsin, both victorious Saturday, continue play in the East. Iowa, a 91-84 victory over St. John's in holiday activity in New York's Madison Square Garden, will engage New York University. Wisconsin faces Canisius in the Queen City Tournament in Buffalo after downing Boston College, 95-82, Saturday.

Indiana is pitted against Maryland in Louisville's Blue Grass Invitational and Minnesota faces North Carolina in the Dixie Classic. Illinois, Michigan and Northwestern all will be busy in the Los Angeles tournament.

Illinois, the Big Ten's only undefeated team, meets unbeaten California, defending national champion, in its initial West Coast encounter.

Northwestern's foe is Southern California and Michigan plays UCLA.

Once tournament activity is ended, Western Conference teams will rest before opening league play Saturday when three games are slated.

Indiana, the pre-season favorite, opens at home against Purdue, Iowa, which has games stature since the season started, will be at Minnesota, and defending champion Michigan State is at Wisconsin in a regionally televised matinee.

Indians, Reds Win Hockey Contests

By The Associated Press

The leading contenders for the four playoff positions in the American Hockey League took a firmer hold on their positions over the weekend.

The Springfield Indians, pacing the field by eight points, made only one appearance but in that they downed last place Quebec 3-2 Saturday. Second-Place Providence also was out only once but the Reds made the most of it Sunday by also beating Quebec, 4-0.

Rochester and Buffalo, deadlocked for third place, each came through with two triumphs. The Americans beat Hershey twice, 6-2 Saturday and 3-1 Sunday. The Bisons whipped the Cleveland Barons 5-2 at Cleveland Saturday and 5-3 at home Sunday.

Two rookies starred in Providence's victory over the Aces. Goaltender Bruce Gamble posted his third shutout of the season and Stan Baluk, recently returned after brief service with Boston of the National League, scored three goals.

including 13 knockouts. Logan, 23, has a 12-1 record, including 10 kayos. The lone loss was by split decision to Hurricane Jackson, onetime top contender.

Four other heavyweight corners also are matched in 10-rounders on the same card. Unbeaten Lee Williams of Boston opposes Don Warner of Philadelphia and Irish Billy Ryan of Boston mixes with Bartolo Soni of the Dominican Republic.

Both Mims and Tiger are old faces to TV fans. The loser of this one, however, may not see any big time action for a while since both dropped decisions the last time out. Mims, 30, was beaten by Rudell Strich. Tiger, 30, dropped a close decision to Joe Giardello.

Young Heavyweights Head Boxing Card

By The Associated Press

A couple of young heavyweight prospects and a pair of veteran middleweights are the stars in this week's boxing program.

Undefeated Tom McNeely of Boston and once-beaten George Logan of Boise, Idaho, clash in the television headliner NBC 10 p.m., EST of a heavyweight card at Madison Square Garden. Middleweights Holly Mims of Washington and Dick Tiger of Nigeria meet in the Wednesday night TV ABC 10 p.m., EST title at Chicago stadium.

McNeely, 22, has a 15-0 record.

Ohio Colleges Vie In Tournaments

Robertson Nets 47 Points As Cincy Rips St. Bonaventure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati, Xavier, Dayton and Bowling Green, big names in Ohio basketball, shoot for honors tonight in some top holiday tournaments.

The first-ranked Bearcats (7-0) touched off the rash of year-end tourneys Saturday with an easy 96-56 victory over St. Bonaventure in the ECAC Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden.

Xavier 7-1 and Dayton 6-1 are in for rugged competition when the Muskies tangle with Florida in the Hurricane Classic and the Flyers go against North Carolina State in the tough Dixie Classic.

Bowling Green (2-3) is pitted against Tulsa in a first round test of the All-College Tourney at Oklahoma City.

In non-tournament action, Ohio State (7-1) journeys to Lexington for an engagement with Kentucky, a foe with considerable prestige.

The game with the Wildcats serves as a tuneup for the Bucks before they start Big Ten competition next Monday against Illinois.

In last Saturday's contests, Cincinnati had little difficulty in its first round test as fabulous Oscar Robertson netted 47 points.

The Bearcats face St. Joseph's (Pa.) tonight in a semifinal, and these two teams have met before. The club from Philadelphia would rather forget about it, though. Cincinnati walloped St. Joe, 123-79, two weeks ago.

Wittenberg (6-1) advanced to the final round of the Evansville (Ind.) tournament, disposing of Tennessee Tech, 56-44. The Tigers, who have lost only to a good Louisville team, face the host quintet, Evansville, for the championship tonight.

In the only other action Saturday, Xavier trimmed New Mexico, 84-76, for its third victory of the week.

Other tournaments involving Ohio teams tonight include the four-team Akron Invitational and the Quincy College NAIA Holiday Tournament, in which Youngstown will compete. The Penguins play Southern Illinois first.

On Friday, Baldwin - Wallace, Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio Northern and Mount Union match baskets in the Ohio Methodist College Holiday Tourney at Berea. That same night, Wooster plays in a meet at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Plans Made for 1960

Yearly Trophies Presented At Salem Hunt Club Dinner

Yearly trophies were awarded and plans made for 1960 by the Salem Hunting Club at a coverdish supper held Sunday evening at the club.

Events which will be continued next year at the rifle range are pistol, offhand and .22 caliber bench rest shooting. There will be month, with starting time set for all matches. Shoots will be held 1:30 p.m.

The rifle range will be taken care of by Dave Kirby, the off hand by James Ivan and the pistol by John Kesseg and Lester Marshall.

First place trophies for 1959 were awarded to Mrs. James Ivan, women's .22 bench rest; Dave Kirby men's .22 bench rest; James Ivan, off hand; and Bill Robinson, pistol.

Mrs. Harold Culler placed second and Mrs. Dave Kirby third in the women's .22 bench rest. In the men's .22 bench rest, James Ivan was second and Harold Culler was third.

Bill Robinson was second and Mrs. James Ivan third in the off hand event. Chester Bert and William Perkins finished second and third, respectively, in the pistol event.

Monthly traveling trophies for the year were won by Mrs. Harold Culler and Raymond Brandt who got to keep the trophies.

Winners for December (22 shooters participated) were as follows: .22 bench rest — Mrs. Harold Culler, first; James Ivan, second; and Mrs. James Ivan, third.

Off hand — James Ivan, first; Bill Robinson, second; and Raymond Brandt, third.

Pistol — Chester Bert, first; Jerry Harroff, second; and William Perkins, third.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan won special awards for the day. The traveling trophies for December went to Mr. and Mrs. Brandt.

54 Fouls Called In Game

Cathedral Latin Reserves Trowned by Quakers 69-41

In a ragged game which saw a total of 54 fouls called, the Salem Reserves turned in their easiest win of the season Saturday night by smashing the invading Cleveland Cathedral Latin Reserves 69-41.

Referees Al Catlos and Tom Nedelka called 31 fouls against Latin and 23 against Salem. In all, 72 shots were attempted from the foul line.

Both coaches cleared their benches. Twelve men broke into the scoring column for Cleveland and 10 for Salem. Despite the abundance of foul calls, Roger Hogan of Latin was the only man to leave the game on personals.

With Fred Harshman, Ron Janovec and Duane McClaskey doing most of the scoring, the Salem Jayvees shot into a 22-10 first period lead. Bob Eskay and Ted Thorne took over the brunt of the scoring in the second quarter when the Quakers moved into a 38-16 half time lead.

Todd Couchie flipped in seven points in the third stanza while red-hot Eskay dumped in nine more. Latin outscored the Quakers 13-11 in the final quarter, but the damage was done.

Eskay paced the Quakers with 16 points. Borovac was high for Cathedral Latin with seven.

Coach Karl Zellers' Salem Reserve combine will seek their fourth straight victory Saturday at home against Akron North.

North Wins Blue-Gray Tilt

Line Play Accounts For 20-8 Victory

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A beefy, hard-charging Yankee line proved to be a deciding factor in the North's 20-8 triumph in the 22nd annual Blue - Gray football game.

The burly linemen, most of them from Big 10 colleges, got the jump on the Southern all stars early in Saturday's game and remained in command all the way.

Rival coaching staffs agreed inspired line play was mainly responsible for the second consecutive North win. It narrowed the South's lead in the series to 13-8.

The North all stars went 85 yards in 11 plays for the first touchdown, 77 yards in 12 plays for the next and the last one came on a 52-yard drive in eight plays.

Vanderbilt's Tom Moore scored the only Gray touchdown on a 23-yard pass from Harvey White of Clemson in the third quarter. Then Charlie Miltstead of Texas A&M on a fake placement attempt passed to Moore who drove over for a two-pointer.

Head Coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue, who directed the winning strategy both this year and last, was warm in his praise of the Blue line as was Oklahoma's Gomer Jones, the line coach.

"Our offensive line did a good job of opening holes in the South line," said Jones, "And they really kept the pressure on the Rebels all afternoon."

Celtics Score 122-111 Win Over Royals

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics still are rolling toward the National Basketball Assn's consecutive game winning streak. But the budding streak of the St. Louis Hawks has come to an end.

The Celtics, who have lost only four of their 32 games, ran their winning streak to 15 games Sunday night by downing the Cincinnati Royals 122-111. The record of 17 was hung up by the old Washington Capitols.

The Hawks, leading the western division by 7 1/2 games, had their string snapped at six games Saturday when they dropped a 117-104 decision to the Syracuse Nationals.

23 Events Under Way Nation's Top College Teams Participating In Tourneys

By The Associated Press

Twenty-three, count 'em, college basketball tournaments are carded for tonight with practically every top team in the country involved in the big ones.

Six tournaments got under way last Saturday, and the other 17 start tonight. They'll all wind up by the end of the week.

In Los Angeles, the final of the first annual Los Angeles Festival could wind up in a replay of last season's NCAA championship between California and West Virginia.

The Bears have won 22 games in a row, the longest winning streak among major schools. They run head-on into Illinois (5-0) in their first game. West Virginia (8-0), led by All America Jerry West, plays Stanford.

The other two openers match Southern California against North western and UCLA against Michigan.

At Raleigh, N.C., the Dixie classic starts with Utah (8-0) favored to break a 10-year stranglehold by North Carolina schools. The Utes play Duke in the first round. Wake Forest tangles with Holy Cross, North Carolina State meets Dayton and North Carolina is matched against Minnesota in the other games.

Other major tournaments getting under way tonight include the All-College at Oklahoma City, the Blue Grass at Louisville, the Southwest Conference at Houston, the Hurricane Classic at Miami and the Motor City at Detroit.

In New York, they still are marvelling at Oscar Robertson's fantastic 47 points in Cincinnati's 96-56 rout of St. Bonaventure Saturday in the first round of the ECAC Holiday Festival.

Big O and Co. meet St. Joseph's of Philadelphia in the semifinal tonight — the same club they smothered, 123-79 earlier in the season.

St. Joseph's advanced with an 84-70 triumph over Manhattan. Two finals are on tap for tonight.

Wisconsin meets Canisius for the Queen City title at Buffalo, and Evansville plays Wittenburg for the Evansville (Ind.) Invitational championship.

Colts Stage 4th Period Rally To Hand Giants 31-16 Defeat

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The Baltimore Colts, counted out of the race by many after three losses in their first seven games, are the world champions of professional football again today.

They clinched the title for the second straight year by staging an inspired 24-point fourth quarter Sunday to rout the Eastern Division Champion New York Giants 31-16. Last year the Colts defeated the Giants in the playoff 23-17 in a sudden-death overtime period.

Colts quarterback Johnny Unitas, voted the pro football player of the year, proved to a capacity crowd of nearly 60,000 in Memorial Stadium and television in 44 states that he deserved the honor. He threw two touchdown passes and ran for a third. It was the 39th straight game he has thrown a scoring drive.

Still, it was the defense on both teams that shone.

During that wild last period, when Giant quarterback Charley Conerly was trying to get New York back in the ball game with long passes, the Colts secondarily picked off three interceptions. Conerly had only four intercepted during the entire season.

"Their defense made all their points for them today, not the offense," said Giant coach Jim Lee Howell. "Both defenses were better than the offensive teams."

If there were a single crucial play for the Giants, Howell reasoned, it was in the third quarter when New York, on the Colts 26, decided to go for a first down on a fourth-and-one situation. The Giants were leading 9-7 at the time.

Halfback Alex Webster tried to barrel through his right tackle spot, but the Colts line surged in on him en masse, and Baltimore took over the ball on downs.

"The team seemed to go down a bit after that," Howell said,

"though they never stopped trying."

Baltimore coach Weeb Ewbank, a beaming, satisfied soul, also credited that play with being an important one.

"I think holding them like that fired us up," he said.

That they were. Unitas and Lenny Moore were the key men in an 86-yard, 10-play drive that produced the Colts' touchdown early in the fourth quarter to put them ahead 14-9. A Unitas to Moore pass and run play moved the ball to the New York 12.

down to the three-yard line before the Colts defense stiffened.

Pat Summerall came in then to kick the first of three field goals which kept the Giants in the thick of it until the roof fell in that last quarter.

New York played the Colts off their feet during the third quarter — Baltimore didn't get a first down until the period was almost over—but the Giants were unable to muster more than a third field goal. Summerall's last effort was a comparatively short 15-yarder climaxing a drive that started on the Colts 14.

Then came that fourth.

After the Colts had taken the lead, Conerly tried to get the Giants downfield with a 25-yard pass aimed at Rote. But little Andy Nelson from Memphis State grabbed the pigskin and ran it back 16 yards to the Giants 4. After one plunge by Ameche, Unitas lobbed a corner pass to Richardson for all the scoring the Colts would need.

Conerly, still hoping to pull it out, fired two more long ones. Sample got in the way of both of those, however. The Maryland State scabbard returned one of them 42 yards for a touchdown, literally fighting his way for the last three yards while two red-and-white jerseyed players tried to drag him down. Sample returned his second interception 34 yards before he was racked up.

The Giants finally managed to dent the Colts goal line with a 32-yard pass from Conerly which ended Bob Schnelker caught about two yards inside the end zone. But there were only 32 seconds remaining, and the issue had been decided.

The statistics were much closer than the score. New York chalked up 16 first downs to Baltimore's 13, and outstruck the Colts, 118 yards to 73. Baltimore had a slight edge in passing, with Unitas completing 18 of 29 tries for 264 yards, and Conerly completing 17 in 38 tries for 250 yards. None of Unitas' heaves was intercepted, and neither team fumbled. New York was penalized 23 yards to 30 for Baltimore.

The game grossed $666,281. With taxes, rentals and operating expenses taken out, it left a net take of $553,743.16. The Colts players and coaches will get a check for $4,674.44, with $3,083.27 going to each loser.

The defeat sorely hurt the New Yorkers, but they took it graciously.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, an avid Washington Redskins rooster, stopped in the Giants dressing room after the game to offer his condolences.

He asked Conerly if he were hurt from the pounding he took from the big Colt linemen.

"Just my pride," grinned the graying veteran.

Leetonia Masons Seat New Officers for Year

LEETONIA — At a recent meeting of the Masonic Lodge the following officers were installed:

Refreshments and a fellowship hour followed the installation:

WOMEN'S SOCIETY of Christian Service of the Methodist Church will meet Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Elby Morris, 740 Columbia St., with Mrs. Charles Albright and Miss Hazel Ginther as co-hostesses.

Mrs. Gilbert Edgerton will have the devotions and Miss Gusie Ginther will be in charge of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wire and sons attended a family gathering at the home of his father, Mr. Roy Wire in New Springfield Thursday evening.

Unity Class of the Methodist Church will hold a covered dish dinner this evening in the social room. Each family is to bring a covered dish and a gift for the new kitchen.

Mrs. Ida Shive of Salem and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Shive of Leetonia spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shive.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Edgerton and family visited on Christmas with her mother, Mrs. Nova Andre in Winona.

DESERT LIFE—Science comes to the desert as this Libyan lays geophone lines in Cirenacia Province. The lines are used in testing for possible oil deposits.

Columbiana Service Club Programs Planned Tonight

COLUMBIANA — "Men Who Make Steel," a Republic Steel Co. movie, will be shown at the Kiwanis Club meeting this evening at Heck's Restaurant. Harold Armstrong, who will take over as president at the start of the new year, is program chairman.

Rotary Club will have a "Carolina plan" meeting tonight at Valley Golf Club. Several members will sketch the careers of one of their fellow members. John C. T. Elder is program chairman.

YOUTH FELLOWSHIPS of three Mennonite Churches will meet together for an evening of recreation on New Year's Eve. The session, at Fairfield High School, is scheduled to start at 9 p.m.

Rev. Charles Claypool of Bethesda, will speak at "Watch Night" services from 9 to midnight on Thursday night at the Columbiana Bible Church. He will show films taken on his recent visit to the Holy Land. Special music will be provided by the Claypool family. The public is invited to the service.

FIFTIETH and 55th wedding anniversaries were celebrated recently by two local couples.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lindsay, 41 N. Cross St., had a family gathering last week in observance of their 55th anniversary. Lindsay, a retired iron molder, and the former Pearl Wright were married in Columbiana on Dec. 21, 1904, and have resided here since that time except for a brief stay in Youngstown. They have a daughter, Mrs. Edward John of Alliance, and son, Russ Lindsay of Columbiana.

Open house was held Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Rohrer of the Salem Rd. on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. They were married Dec. 30, 1909. He is a former sawyer and farmer, operating the farm on the New Waterford Rd. until about 15 years ago. The couple has three children: Mrs. William Trotter Jr. of Leetonia, Gilbert Rohrer of Denbigh, Va., and Herman Rohrer of Bradenton, Fla.

The Men's Prayer Group of the Methodist Church will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of E. Gordon Warner.

Village Council will meet in adjourned session at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Town Hall to wind up business for the year 1959.

Test Set for Mother Who Shot Children

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—A sanity hearing was scheduled today in Lorain County Common Pleas Court for a 32-year-old Sheffield Lake mother who shot and killed one of her daughters and wounded two others.

Mrs. Coleen Kistler, who has been undergoing treatment for a mental illness, was to have been committed to Apple Creek State Hospital today.

Killed by the wild shooting spree Saturday was Katherine Oda Kistler, one month old. Her sisters, Karen, 10, and Kristine, 2½, were wounded and hospitalized here.

The father, Ray Kistler, was in the garage with two sons, Eric, 12, and Franz, 8, when the shooting occurred at the family home. The mother took a revolver from a gun case and fired six shots.

Kistler said services and burial for the baby would be in Findlay, probably Tuesday.

"If Christmas hadn't been right now," said Kistler, "my wife would have been in Apple Creek State Hospital by now."

Attempts had been made to have Mrs. Kistler committed but were delayed because of the holidays, said Police Capt. Adam A. Elgart of Sheffield Lake.

MAN BEATEN TO DEATH — CLEVELAND (AP) — Will Dorsey, 75, a resident of the Carter Rest Home here was beaten to death in his room Sunday. Police held his 80-year-old roommate, Archie Harris.

A nurse said she heard a commotion in the second floor room, but found it locked and barred. Other aides were summoned and, after forcing the door open, found Dorsey's body on the floor. He apparently was beaten by Harris' cane, which was broken in three places, and a metal container, said Homicide Det. Adelbert O'Hara.

Christmas Island was discovered by Captain James Cook on Christmas of 1777 and named for that day.

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M. D.

Patient's Testimony Must Be Accurate

If you were going to make a speech or testify in court you'd make certain the words you chose conveyed your exact meaning.

You ought to take equal pains to be sure that you are giving an accurate description of your complaints to your medical adviser.

Dr. H. T. Hyman

An eminent clinician once said that most examinations merely serve to confirm or deny the diagnosis that was suggested by the patient's narrative.

Whether they do it intentionally or unintentionally, some patients omit details or give a wholly misleading history that may lead to errors which threaten their health. Here are some common examples of the unhappy results of this deception.

1. The high-school miss who does not report pain in the lower right abdomen because she fears she might be prevented from going to the Junior Prom... and whose appendix bursts before she is seen by the physician.

2. The athlete who tries to "walk off" an injury to his leg for fear he'll be taken out of the game... and who converts a simple fracture into a compound break that has to be set by open surgery.

3. The apprehensive man who sends an emergency call to his doctor each time he hears or reads of an attack of coronary thrombosis... After answering multiple false alarms, he physician finished what he is doing before responding to the call and discovers that the summons is genuine for the very first time.

4. The thoughtful and considerate mother who waits until morning to send for her doctor who is himself recovering from a serious illness... on his arrival, the physician finds that her baby's "colic" is the result of a complete intestinal blockage and that precious time has been lost getting to surgery.

Wife of Retired Marion Editor Dies

MARION, Ohio (AP)—Services will be held here Wednesday for Mrs. Harry E. Elliott, 72, wife of the retired editor of the Marion Star. She died Sunday after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage Thursday. She is survived by her husband, who retired in 1953, and five children, three of them in newspaper work.

HOME TO BE DEDICATED

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Villa Santa Anna, a new Catholic home for the aged in suburban Beachwood, will be dedicated Saturday. It was built at a cost of more than one million dollars by the First Catholic Ladies Slovak Union, a national fraternal insurance organization.

anization of 90,000 members. It will be operated under supervision of the Diocesan Catholic Charities.

ADDRESSES TEACHERS

CINCINNATI — John Edmunds, of New York, composer and music librarian, says he thinks people will not like the relatively new music by electronic devices. It is "weird and shattering," he said Sunday, and "it's going to frighten them." Edmunds spoke at the annual convention of the National Assn. of Teachers of Singing.

Easter Island was so called because it was discovered on Easter Sunday of 1722.

Benjamin Franklin made the game of chess popular in the United States.
